SUPERVISOR'S REPORT.

The Maysville market sold for the last week 1,795,470 pounds at an average of $11.74. The quality and condition of tobacco was much better than the previous week. We believe grade for grade it was the most satisfactory of any week since the opening, there being strong competition on everything offered from the green to the highest types. The market cleaned up the block and sales open Monday as usual.

O. D. BURGOWNE

Death of This Well-Known Citizen at the Home of His Son Sunday Evening.

Mr. Otto D. Burgowne, aged 85, died Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of his son, Robert D. Burgowne, on Jersey Ridge, after a brief illness of the infirmities incident to old age.

Mr. Burgowne was born in this city on February 4, 1831, and has spent his entire life here. In early manhood he went to work as an apprentice in the blacksmith department of the Eagle Plow Works of this city, and became one of its expert workmen of that institution, staying there until a few years ago, when he was compelled to give up work on account of his weakened condition from his age.

His wife passed away several years ago, since which time he has been making his home with his children.

He was one of this city's best-known and well-liked citizens, a friend to everyone and a more generous hearted old fellow could not be found, making him a favorite with all who knew him.

He is survived by three children, one daughter, Mrs. S. H. McChord of Stockton, Cal., and two sons, Robert D. of Jersey Ridge and Frank C. of this city, and one grandson, Ashby Burgowne.

The funeral will occur from the residence of his son, Frank, on East Second street, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Interment in the Maysville cemtery.

an infant son one month old. Funeral service will be held at the res-

BASEBALL SURE

Directors of Ohio State League Meet and Decide to Continue—Maysville to Continue.

The directors of the Ohio State League of Base Ball Clubs met in the White Hall Hotel Sunday afternoon and went over many matters pertaining to the welfare of the league.

Those present were Mr. Joe Carr of Columbus, Ohio, President of the League, Mr. William Gableman and Mr. William Yottman of Portsmouth, Ohio, representing Huntington, W. Va., and Messrs. Thomas M. Russell and Claude Watkins of this city. Long distance messages were had from Lexington, Frankfort and Charleston, who appointed proxies and said they were in the league to stay.

During the meeting the question of reviving the old Blue Grass League came up, but no definite action on the subject, owing to the absence of three of the directors.

The matter of enlarging the Ohio State League and changing its name was also considered and was left over for further consideration until the next meeting, which will take place on March 5, probably at Frankfort.

President Joe Carr stated that the league was in splendid condition and the outlook for a successful base ball season was never better. He said the Ohio State now has a six-club league assured—Maysville, Portsmouth, Lexington, Frankfort, Charleston and Huntington, the latter being admitted as a member at yesterday's meeting.
The above clubs are enough to make the league a go, but several other towns are knocking for admission—
Chillicothe, Ashland, Cardinalsburg, Pindley and Lancaster. It is quite probable two of these teams will be admitted, thus making an eight-club league.

On the Kentucky side of the river there is a strong sentiment in favor of the old Blue Grass League being formed with Maysville, Frankfort, Winchester, Richmond, Lexington and Portsmouth composing the circuit.
This line-up appeals to the Kentucky members of the Ohio State, but they are not going to stand in the way of organized base ball this summer.

Outside of the above facts there was little business transacted, although the meeting lasted until 10 o'clock, when Messrs. Carr, Yottman and Gableman left for their respective homes on t. & O. train No. 4.

which union nine children were born,
eight of whom survive her.

known ladies of her section, having been connected with the M. E. Church, South, all her life, and was a splendid example of the old-type of Christian mothers that are rapidly passing away.
She was truly a Christian lady in every sense of the word, and her loss will be keenly felt by her family, her church and the entire community in which she was so long a resident.

She is survived by eight children,

General Hunter, well-known hero of the Mexican War.

morning at 10 o'clock at her late home,
the services being conducted by the Rev. Mr. Matthews, pastor of the M.
E. Church, South, of Mt. Carmel.

The interment will follow in the Mt.
Carmel cemetery.

DOGS AND BABIES.

A society note telegraphed around the country from Palm Beach was to the effect that a bet had been made that there are more dogs than babies among the society crowd at that resort. The latest score given in the paper named twenty dogs and only eight babies.

Is this an indication of the relative interest in dogs and babies among the high society elements of the most fashionable centers? Dogs certainly possess many advantages. They can be so trained that they never annoy any one by untimely barking, while no amount of education can prevent athletic babies from yelling at the most untimely hours.

Also dogs show within a short time after birth all the marks of aristocratic lineage. They are capable of winning prizes and renown at canine shows, they bring the owner thereof much reflected glory, and create subjects of interesting conversation. It is some years before a baby shows any sign of high breeding. In infancy there may be nothing to distinguish him from the most plebeian wail of the gutter.

Of course the real reason why babies are not popular in many aristocratic families is that they take time. Even the most flippant and frivolous mother can not escape some feeling of responsibility for her fidgetings. Probably some mothers at Palm Beach left their little ones at home with a corps of trained nurses, doctors and servants to assure their welfare. The feeling of motherhood is by no means extinct even in the smart set. But a life of social excitement usually tends to make many women less interested in the humdrum cares of the nursery.

It is, of course, customary to rail at smart society, and it has plenty of faults and foibles. Sometimes it may be blamed for things it is not responsible for. It seems as if there must be unhealthy conditions in the life of modern society that often prevent the hearing of children even when they are desired. But of course there are a good many individual cases where dogs are really preferred to babies. Such women borrow heavily on their future happiness to assure themselves a gay and free life today.

AUTOMOBILES AND ADVERTISING.

Here are two significant facts of modern life:

Fact 1.—The use of automobiles has multiplied beyond the dreams of any of the people who used to sell them a few years ago.

Fact 2.—The amount of money spent in advertising automobiles is perfectly enormous. The larger newspapers carry whole pages of this advertising. Money is poured out like water to the magazines. Millions are spent with small city and country newspapers to bring the story close to the home constituency and help the local dealer.

Can any one doubt that these two facts are to each other as cause to effect? Could the sale of automobiles be half as large as it is today, if the advantages of buying them were not continually brought to the public attention? Every time a man picks up these newspapers and magazines, the latent desire existing in his mind to own an automobile is fed and magnified. Quiescent at the start, it grows every time by the pictures he sees and the description that he reads. Soon he is over at the local dealer's taking a demonstration. The result is obvious. Advertising did it.

The same thing has been done in many other kinds of goods the sale of which could be doubled or quadrupled by a similar advertising campaign.

When a man sees a grocer advertising some luscious food product he begins to want it. The taste that is latent in his mind begins to assert itself. If he reads that advertisement day after day, he realizes that is just the thing he has been longing for. The next time he passes that grocer's he drops in and tries it out.

Advertising did it.

AMERICANIZATION WORK.

Posters from the National Americanization committee are being displayed in postoffices and other public places all over the country. They urge foreigners to learn English, attend night schools and get naturalized. This work deserves wide publicity, and there should be general co-operation with the movement.

Many women help on by assisting alien servant girls to learn to read and speak our tongue. It is good missionary work.

Employers of labor should urge their alien help to take every possible pains to learn to speak, read and write English, and to prepare for naturalization. The newcomers should be shown that only thus can they gain their share of American prosperity, comfort and liberty. If they remain isolated among people of their own race, they only partly gain the blessings of American life. And while they do remain thus aloof, they can't become thoroughly Americanized and their ignorance of our customs and ideas must tend toward friction.

The mothers may feel pleased to see how many cities their boys know about, and may think they are studying geography very hard, but this information perhaps comes largely from reading the baseball news.

The national guard can be successfully used for defense in case of war, merely by asking permission of forty-eight Governors and state legislatures every time an order is issued to them.

Last week there was a difference of 134 degrees of temperature between Tampa, Fla., and Havre, Mont. Another way to grasp the magnificent distances of our nation.

John Lind has proved his ability as a diplomat by writing to Henry Lane Wilson, late ambassador to Mexico, a letter of apology which contains no apology.

There would not be so much trouble about getting Congress to stop child labor if it was merely a bill to protect hogs.

A lot of folks are now Brandeishing their fists at the President for his recent Supreme Court appointment.

Woodrow's preparedness speeches indicate that he is fast losing that pride that will not permit of fighting.

February 14.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, pioneer woman preacher, temperance leader, worker for women's advancement, and for the last thirty years a leading suffrage leader in the United States, is 60 years old today.

Although she retired from office as president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association last fall, she continues to be active in the fight for equal suffrage. Dr. Shaw was the only woman who ever preached in Gustav Vasa Cathedral, the state church of Sweden, and the first ordained woman to preach in Berlin, Copenhagen, Christiania, Amsterdam and London. She is English by birth and was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne on February 14, 1847. Her parents migrated to America when she was four years old, and Anna was brought up in American ways. She was educated at Albion College, Michigan, Boston University Theological School and B. U. School of Medicine. While studying theology forty years ago she preached at Hingham, Mass., and was later pastor for eight years at East Dennis on Cape Cod. The Methodist Episcopal church conference refused to ordain her, however, and she was ordained by the Methodist Protestant church in 1880, the first woman to receive ordination by that denomination. In 1885, she gave up preaching to lecture on equal suffrage for the Massachusetts Suffrage Association. She was interested in temperance work for the next twenty-five years, and has also continued her suffrage work without a break, speaking in every state in the Union, before legislatures and before committees of both houses of Congress. Dr. Shaw makes her home at Moylan, Pa.

Dr. William Marion Payne, American writer and literary critic, 58 years old today.

Hon. Joseph W. Flavello, chairman of the Imperial Munition Board of Canada, 58 years old today.

William McConway, Pittsburgh manufacturer and civic worker, 73 years old today.

Dr. Myrnes S. Grant, noted geologist of Northwestern University, 49 years old today.

Dr. Andrew C. McLaughlin, historian and authority on government, University of Chicago, 55 years old today.

Carl Marr, noted American painter, 58 years old today.

Hon. Charles F. Johnson, U. S. Senator from Maine, 67 years old today.

Francis Milhoan, American diplomat and writer, 45 years old today.

Hon. Thomas S. Williams, new Congressman from Illinois, 44 years old today.

THIS DATE IN HISTORY.

ITEMS FROM ALL AROUND

Old House To Go.

(Danville Messenger.)

The old Gary House, adjoining the Fox livery stable on Main street, is to be torn down to make room for the new hotel. This is one of the old landmarks in Danville.

Had 180 Gall Stones.

(Calloway Times.)

C. A. Bishop was hurried to the Surgical Hospital Monday morning for an operation for gall stone. One hundred and eighty stones were removed, the largest number ever removed from a patient in the history of this hospital.

Haunter 'Crop.

(Bowling Green Messenger.)

T. P. Snider of Woodburn, on four acres of ground during the past season raised 4,600 pounds of tobacco. Leaf brought from $5.50 to $12, tugs from $7.40 to $7.90, and trash at $3.90, or a general average of $8.70 for the crop. This is said to be the best report from dark tobacco in the county.

"Prats" Are Scarce.

(Danville Messenger.)

Two hobo printers hit Danville this week. These interesting fellows are becoming scarce. A few years ago a "tourist," as they are called in the offices, struck town almost every day. Captain McDonald's wood pile has become quite famous with the Weary Willies, and very few of them "make" Danville.

Farmers Pool Hemp.

(Jesseamine Journal.)

Jesseamine county's 275 acres of hemp, which made 300,000 pounds and sold at $1 a hundred, was pooled by C. T. Ashley & Company for the growers of the county. The firm has purchased 800 bushels of hemp seed for $7,400. The hemp acreage for Jesseamine county this year will be larger than for several years. The scarcity and present high prices for hemp seed will, without doubt, prevent numbers of farmers from growing the flax. Many farmers contemplate turning from tobacco to hemp, which is easier raised and leaves the land in better condition.

His Broken Belle.

(W. L. Spaulding in Unlontown Telegram.)

Among the things of interest that attracted our attention most on re-entering the editorial sanctum of this somewhat famous weekly was a broken pair of scissors which constituted the sum total of the clipping facilities of the office. Partly by nature, perhaps, but far more from force of habit, born of necessity, we have grown to be quite a clipper, cutting great printed chunks from the pages of our valued exchanges and appropriating them to our own use, sometimes with, and often without proper credits, and as we beheld the broken shears and contemplated the consequences we were both alarmed and grieved to think how reckless some editor had misinterpreted so good and faithful a friend.

The little scissors that now lie broken before us show signs of better days and bear evidence of hard and long service. They were not here when we left the office ten years ago. They have been brought here by some of our successors and predecessors and by them have been used well, but roughly. Where the pointed half of the right blade now is we know not, but let us hope it was lost in a good cause.

As for the shattered remains of a once powerful ally to learned editors we give our solemn promise to preserve, protect and defend and further promise and agree never to use them again, for we have bought a bigger and better pair.

Rev. Reynolds, who has been a widower for about one year, concluded that it was not good for him to be alone, and so hid himself to Rowan county last Sunday and having previously wooed and won the affection of one of Rowan's emely young widows, they were quietly married and came in home last Tuesday. Here's wishing them much connubial bliss and many happy years to come. Rev. Reynolds is a preacher of note in the old-time Baptist church.

Health for Sick Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine—Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope:—

North Cranston, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and it left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. MAYBE ASBACH, North Cranston, Wis.

Testimony from Oklahoma.

Lawton, Okla.—"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women because it has done so much for me."—Mrs. A. L. McCASLAND, 509 Have St., Lawton, Okla.

From a Grateful Massachusetts Woman.

Roxbury, Mass.—"I was suffering from inflammation and was examined by a physician who found that my trouble was caused by a displacement. My symptoms were bearing down pains, backache, and sluggish liver. I tried several kinds of medicine; then I was asked to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me and I am pleased to be in my usual good health by using it and highly recommend it."—Mrs. B. M. Osgood, 1 Hayes Park, Roxbury, Mass.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

WILL MEET AT PARIS

Fifth Annual Session of Woman's Missionary Society of the Kentucky Conference. M. E. Church, South, March 7 to 10.

Much interest is being manifested in the Fifth Annual Session of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Kentucky Conference, of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, which is to convene at the Paris Methodist church on the evening of March 7 and continuing through March 10.

At the last meeting of the local auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society the various committees were appointed by the President, Mrs. H. A. Power, to carry out plans looking forward to the meeting. It is estimated that more than 200 officers, delegates and guests will be in attendance.

At the annual session last year there were several towns which were enthusiastic to have the conference, but Paris was chosen by a decided vote and the Hourbon people will have an opportunity to show their generous hospitality to this representative body of Kentucky women. The conference is managed by the following officers:

President—Mrs. J. E. Grubbs of Winchester.

First Vice President—Mrs. F. A. Cosgrove of Middlesboro.

Second Vice President—Miss Annie Lewis of Lexington.

Corresponding Secretary—Miss Julia Durham of Danville.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Anna A. Davis of Fort Thomas.

Treasurer—Mrs. C. E. Atterhall of Winchester.

Mission Study and Publicity Superintendent—Mrs. A. B. Massey of Danville.

Social Service Superintendent—Mrs. Oakford Hinton of Paris.

Supplies Superintendent—Mrs. D. M. Hinton of Harrodsburg.

Literature Superintendent—Miss Anna Durham of Danville.

Organizer—Mrs. J. H. Sistrunk of Lexington.

District Secretaries.

Covington District—Mrs. W. E. Arnolds of Highlands.

Danville District—Mrs. J. E. Channell of Somerset.

Frankfort District—Mrs. H. O. Hughes of Richmond.

Lexington-Jackson District—Mrs. H. H. Lowery of Nicholasville.

Maysville District—Mrs. Sam Holmes of Carlisle.

Shelbyville District—Miss Ella K. Hampton of Milton.

The towboat Rebe Reeves struck an obstruction near Carrollton, Ky., Saturday and sank the J. T. Hatfield coal digger, valued at $10,000. No insurance. It is said the coal digger turned over.

The body of Perry A. Wilson, 53, engineer, of Pittsburg, was removed by divers from the wreck of the Pittsburg Combine towboat Sam Brown, which was wrecked by an explosion at Huntington last week. The body was found in the engine room.

The Bay Brothers during their river career owned and successfully operated the old Henry Logan, J. C. Crossley, B. T. Enos, Louis, City of Ironton, Chevalier, Rosedale, Ruth, Lizzie Boy Chesapeake, L'anna, McGinnis Bay, Kowayha, Henry M. Stanley, Greyhound and probably other Ohio river jockeys.

Frank C. Anderson, state boiler inspector, was in town today, after visiting the wreck of the Sam Brown. It is his opinion that only one of her five boilers exploded, the middle one. His measurements of the boiler shows that under the Ohio laws that boiler would be allowed only 100 pounds of steam.—Gallipolis Tribune.

The towboat Crusader passed down with part of the coal barges that belonged to the ill-fated towboat Sam Brown which blew up at Huntington. The Crusader was lying just ahead of the Sam Brown at the time of the explosion and the latter and debris which was blown on the coal barges could be plainly seen from the wharf boats.

Speaking of boiler explosions Captain Sam Hamilton of Gallipolis, father of Captain George Hamilton, one of the most reliable packet pilots between Pomeroy and Cincinnati, was blown upon the old Lena May of many years back. Like Captain Blair of the doomed towboat Sam Brown, Captain Hamilton was standing on the roof of the Lena May which exploded her boilers near Clippert Mill, a short distance below Gallipolis. Captain Hamilton was blown high in the air and alighted in the wreckage, but was saved, being pulled out of the water by the hair of his head. Captain Hamilton is a brother of the late Captain Jonathan Hamilton of this city, the whole family being rivermen of the gilt-edge variety.

WHO IS RIGHT?

One of our local contemporaries a few days ago made the statement that the present tobacco crop was practically all sold and the Maysville market would probably close the first of March, thus causing a little worry to the farmers who were a little late in stripping their crop, and have not yet brought their tobacco in. We are glad to say that although this year's crop is somewhat smaller than usual, there is plenty of tobacco to be delivered and the Maysville market will continue until its usual date, which is about April 1.

"TO THE VILE DUST."

VANHELMERT had been in many duststorms, but never in such a storm so far from the haunts of men. Awakening in his blanket, with his mouth full of sand, he had opened his eyes to the blinding sting of a storm which already shrouded the very tree under which he lay. Other landmarks there were none. The world was swallowed in a yellow swirl that turned brown and more opaque even as Vanhelmert shook himself out of his blanket and ran for the fence as for his life. He had only left it in order to escape where his eye had towered against the stars. It could not be a hundred yards away, and along the fence ran that beaten track to which the bushman turned instinctively in his panic. In a few seconds he was groping with outstretched hands to break the violence of a collision with invisible wires, in a few minutes, standing at a loss, wondering where the wires or he had got to and whether it would not be wise to retrace his steps and try again. And while he wondered a lit of coughing drove the dust from his mouth like smoke, and even as he coughed the thickening swirl obliterated his tracks as swiftly as heavy snow.

Speckled eyeballs stood out of a sand-dust face as Vanhelmert saw himself adrift and drowning in the dust. He was a huge young fellow, and it was a great smooth face, from which the gaping mouth cut a slit from jaw to jaw. Fear and rage and an overpowering passion of self pity convulsed the coarse features in turn; then, with the grunt of a wounded beast, he ruffled and plunged to his destruction, deeper and deeper into the hush, farther and farther from the fence.

The trees were few and mostly stunted, but Vanhelmert crashed into more than one upon his headlong course. The sense was choked out of him already. He was feeling on the wings of the storm, of direction he thought no more. He forgot that the run he had been traversing was at the best abandoned by man and beast. He forgot the "spell" that he had promised himself at the deserted homestead, where he had once worked as a lad. He might have remembered that the paddock in which he was burying himself had always been the largest in the district. It was a ten mile block without subdividing fence or drop of water from end to end. The whole station was a howling desert. Little likely to be stocked a second time by enlightened man. But this was the desert's heart, and into it sped Vanhelmert, coated yellow to the eyes and lips, the dust field blindingly in his shape. Now he staggered in his stride, now fell headlong to cough and sob in the hollow of his arm. The unfortunate young man had the courage of his desperate straits. Many times he arose and hurled himself outward with curse or prayer, many times he fell or slung himself back to earth. But at length the storm passed over and over his spent members, and gathered by the handful in the folds of his clothes, the end was as near as end could be.

It was just then that two riders, who fancied they had heard a voice, struck an undoubted trail before it vanished, and followed it to the great sprawling body in which the drops of life pulsed feebly. The thing groaned as it was lifted and strapped upon a horse; it gurgled gibberish at the taste of raw spirits later in the same hour. It was high noon before Vanhelmert opened a seeing eye and blinked it in the unveiled sun.

He was lying on a blanket in a treeless hollow in the midst of trees. The ground had been cleared by no human hand; it was a little basin of barren clay, burnt to a brick and drained by the tiny water hole that sparkled through its thatch of leaves and branches in the center of a natural circle. Vanhelmert turned and viewed the sylvan amphitheater; on its far side were two small tents and a man in a folding chair reading the Australian. He closed the paper on meeting Vanhelmert's eyes, went to one of the tents, stood a moment looking in and then came across the sunlit circle with his newspaper and the folded chair.

"And how do you feel now?" said he, setting up the chair beside the blanket.

"Fine!" replied Vanhelmert huskily.

"But where am I, and who are you chaps? Hobbiters?"

As he spoke, however, he searched for the inevitable strings of rabbit skins festooned about the tents and found them not.

"If you like," replied the other, frowning a little at the immediate curiosity of the rescued man.

"I don't like," said Vanhelmert, staring unabashed. "I'm a rabbit myself and know too much. It ain't no game for abandoned stations, and you don't go playin' it in top boots and spurs. Where's your skins and where's your squatter to pay for 'em? Plucky rabbiters, you two?"

And he gazed across the open toward the further tent, which had just disgorged a long body and a black beard not wholly unfamiliar to Vanhelmert.

"Then what should you say that we are?"

"How do I know?" cried Vanhelmert, turning pale, for he had been one of the audience at Mrs. Clarkson's concert in Gulland's store, and in consecutive moments he had recognized first Howie and now Stingaree.

"You know well enough."

"And the terrible eyeglass covered him like a pistol."

"Perhaps I can guess," faltered Vanhelmert.

"There are tales about a new chum camping by himself—that is, just with one man?"

"And what object?"

"To get away from the world, sir."

"And where did you hear these tales?"

"All along the road, sir."

The chastened tone, the anxious countenance, the sudden recourse to the servile monosyllable, were none of them lost on Stingaree, but he himself had once set such a tale abroad, and it might be that the present bearer still believed it. The eyeglass looked him through and through. Vanhelmert bore the suspicion like a man.

"I suppose you have no recollection of how you got here?" at length said Stingaree.

"Not me. I only remember the dust storm. But I'm very grateful to you, sir, for saving my life."

"You are, are you?"

"Haven't I cause to be, sir?"

"Well, I dare say we did bring you round between us, but it was pure luck that we ever came across you. And now I should be quiet if I were you. In a few minutes there'll be a squall of tea for you, and after that you'll feel a different man."

After he had made the tea Stingaree played his violin for a time.

Vanhelmert lay quiet enough; there was much to occupy his mind. Instinctively he had assumed a part, and he was only less quick to embrace the necessity of a strictly consistent performance. He watched Stingaree in close conversation with Howie, who was boiling the billy on a spirit lamp between the two tents, but he watched them with an admirable simulation of idle unconcern. They were talking about him of course, more than once they glanced in his direction, and each time Vanhelmert congratulated himself the more heartily on the ready pretense to which he was committed. Let them put down that he knew them, and Vanhelmert gave himself as short a shift as he would have granted in their place. But they did not dream it; they were off their guard and rather at his mercy than he at theirs. He might prove the immediate instrument of their capture—why not?

SOME WEATHER

From 48 Degrees Above Zero Saturday, With Plenty of Rain, to 1 Degree Below Monday, With Plenty of Snow.

The weather man certainly deserves all the good things that can be said about him.

He has been trying his level best to please everybody and in order to do it has been compelled to give us four hundred kinds of weather in as many minutes all this winter.

Saturday, with the mercury standing at 48, he opened up the rain barrel and stopped out a twelve-hour deluge, and at 10 o'clock Saturday night he turned off the rain barrel and sent us a few moments of sleet, and then, with old man Mercury on the down-go at a rapid rate and a splendid Northern zephyr trimming our whiskers, he showed in a side line of "the beautiful," the flakes falling as large as dollars until, to be exact, 5 1/2 inches had covered us up, and on Monday morning, just to show us that he was trying to please everybody and was not given to slighting anyone, he gave us a cooling out with 4 degrees below "Caldo," accompanied by a side line of frost and fog.

All praise to the weather man! And the ground hog!

POLICE COURT.

The Police Court room was full of spectators Saturday afternoon, drawn by the trial of Howard St. Clair, who waived examination. Judge Whitaker fixed his bail at $500, which he was unable to furnish, and was sent back to jail.

John Darnall plead not guilty to selling intoxicating liquors unlawfully. Three witnesses testified that they each bought off quart of "Black and Green" whiskey—Whiskey, Ohio, whiskey—for $1.50; the other two one pint each, same brand, at 75c per pint. After hearing all the evidence the Judge decided that Darnall was guilty and fined him $100 and gave him a ten days' jail sentence. Darnall had not the coin of the realm so he was returned to the Hotel de Ellet, where it will take until about May 23 to serve out his line.

VALUABLE VIOLIN

Well Known Violinist of Sardinia Has An Instrument That Was Made In 1787.

W. H. King, a well known blacksmith and violinist of Sardinia, very probably possesses the oldest and most valuable violin in this section of the state.

It is a fine toned instrument, and the late Prof. L. D. Wheeler, noted as one of the most accomplished musicians of the country, pronounced this violin one of the best he ever drew a bow across.

It is a nice looking instrument and has been in the possession of Mr. King quite a while.

It is doubtless of foreign manufacture, as the following words are inscribed on it: "Domino Mantagna Subsigna Tremante Vendit" and the date "1787."

Mr. King prizes the instrument very highly and says it is the best he ever owned.

FREE TRANSPORTATION.

For the benefit of the flood sufferers at Hickman, Ky., caused by overflow of the Mississippi river, the Adams and Southern Express companies have decided to give free transportation to gifts or money or clothes that might be sent to the unfortunate.

A letter containing such information was received by local Adams Express Agent Paxton from his company Friday. All packages must be addressed to the Chamber of Commerce, Hickman, Ky., and the weight must not exceed 500 pounds. This is a good opportunity to send help to the many people who were made homeless and almost destitute by the recent disastrous floods.

GOING SOME.

The following is clipped from one of the papers published at Paris, Ky. It is a mighty fine reading for those interested:

"The official statement of City Collector and Treasurer C. K. Thomas of Paris, Ky., shows a most gratifying condition of the city treasury with no tax increase and without a dollar revenue, the city showing a surplus of $10,488.94. For the year 1915, with the saloons out and no revenue from that source, and with the same tax rate, there was a greater surplus by $2,381.79 than in the year 1914, with the additional income from the saloon license.

WHEN THE KIDNEYS FAIL

Maysville People Have Found That Ill Health Follows

Do you ever feel that you simply can't go any further—that you must have rest from that lame and aching back—relief from the constant, dead-tired feeling—freedom from those stabbing, darting pains? Likely your kidneys are worn and tired and need help. The kidneys work night and day, removing uric acid from the blood and other waste created by expenditure of strength and energy. Naturally a life of unusual activity doubles the duties of the kidneys and in time the strain generally tells. Doan's Kidney Pills have brought new strength to thousands of bad backs and quick relief to weakened kidneys, so users say. Let them do the same for you.

S. O. Duncan, blacksmith, Flemingsburg, Ky., says: "I had severe back-aches and my kidneys were out of order, their action being irregular. Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills, I gave them a trial and was soon convinced of their merit. They strengthened my kidneys and back."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Duncan had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

LOSS OF LAMBS.

(Mt. Olivet Tribune-Democrat.)

The changing weather has had a bad effect on young lambs, resulting in the loss of quite a number of the early born. Several farmers have sustained losses of lambs as a result of the peculiar weather, among them W. H. Perry of Chapel neighborhood, who, we are informed, has had twelve to die; Sherman Manning of Ogdon neighborhood, three lambs and one ewe. We also hear that Wiley Buckner has lost several lambs. Ewes are lambing early this year and the outlook is favorable for a very profitable lamb crop.

—QUALITY GROCERS—

The reason for the removal of the two thermometers from the Williams drug store, corner Third and Market streets, was because of their being broken by boys bursting the mercury bulb by placing matches under them. Millard says, "What's the use?"

Coffee Has Advanced and Is Still Going Up

We had our eyes on the market and bought heavy in green coffee before the rise in price. We are glad we bought because we can keep on giving you the same good coffee at the same price. Was your dealer caught napping? Will he cut the quality of your coffee, and tell you he is selling the same coffee you used before? We devote all of our time and attention to your own coffee needs, no matter how small, to give you better satisfaction. You will always notice that "Quality Rules Here."
